How booking works.

Illustrative example: a Barnegat homeowner needs someone to mow their lawn this summer.

1

The homeowner asks for lawn care.

They enter the property, desired timing and service. YardMatch gathers the details needed for a quote and a suitable time window.

2

YardMatch recommends your business.

Your service area, available capacity, service fit and quality signals support the match. The customer sees the recommendation and confirms; a few qualified backups are available if needed.

3

You organize the work.

Review the booking and property notes, coordinate the schedule, approve crew assignments and name a route leader. Everyone works from the same job details.

4

Track the arrival, then complete the visit.

Once the route starts, shared GPS location powers the arrival view. Customers can check the map and estimated arrival while the crew heads over, then the team records arrival and completion evidence.

5

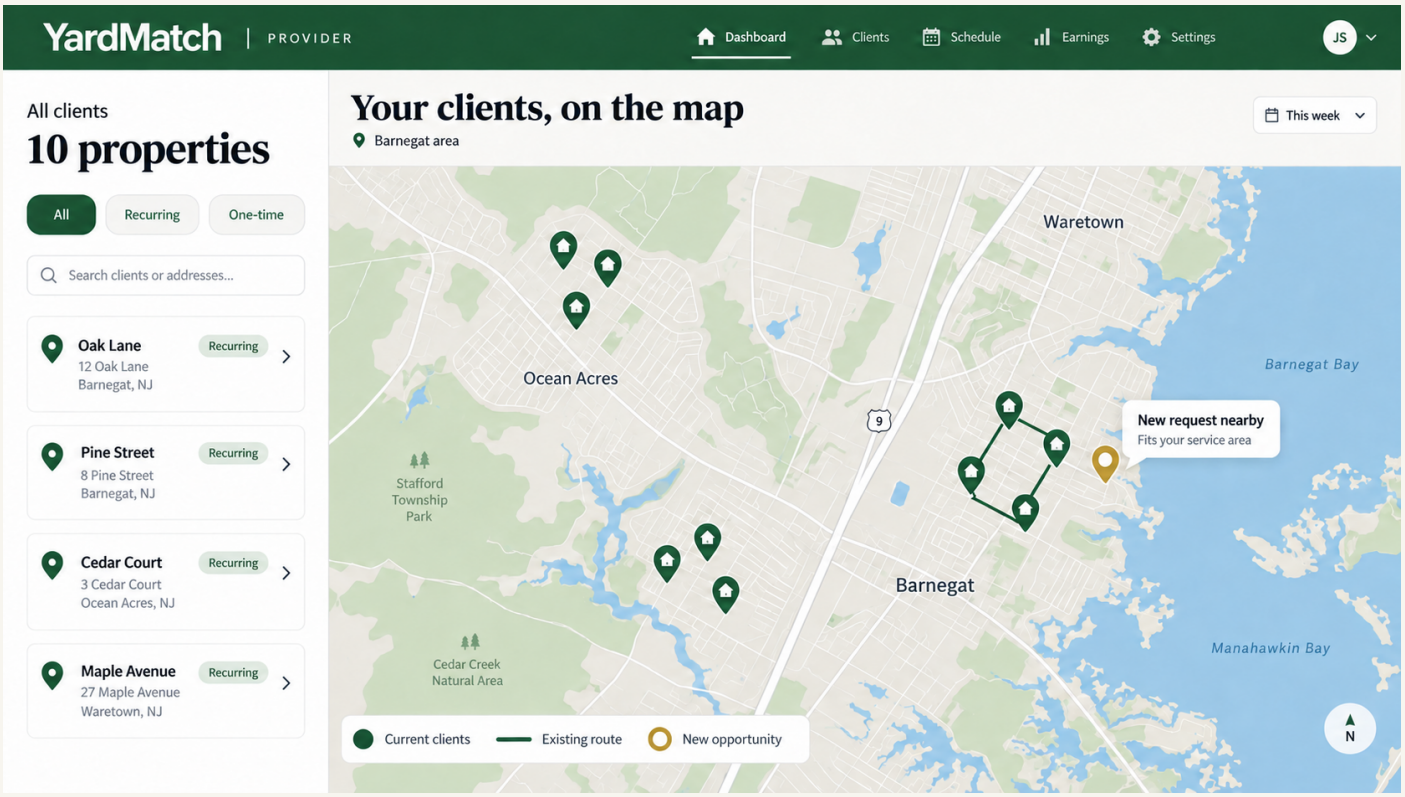

The job closes and the relationship continues.

The customer sees the service record and can review the business. You see the settlement and payout status. Recurring service or a rebooking keeps the relationship moving.

When the day changes: weather delays, access issues and quality concerns stay attached to the booking so the customer, business and support team can coordinate.

Expand in the territories you're already working in.

See your clients across the area, spot nearby demand and build repeat work around the routes your crew already travels.

Illustrative client map with sample properties, an existing route and a nearby new request.

Simple booking flow

Customers describe their needs. YardMatch recommends a qualified business based on fit, then the customer confirms.

A denser service area

See your clients together on the map. Take on nearby work when travel time, schedule and staffing make sense. Save on gas.

A stronger repeat-service loop

Recurring service, rebooking and seasonal reminders help turn a first visit into an ongoing customer relationship.

A clearer staffing picture

Review crew profiles, availability and matches. Find new hires and organize field help as demand grows.

YOU KEEP RUNNING YOUR BUSINESS, YOUR WAY

You control services, service area, availability and crew assignments. Your business handles equipment, supervision, insurance, service quality and crew pay.

Recommendations depend on fit and reliability, not paid placement. Repeat bookings depend on customer choice, availability and good service.

Optimized for client lifetime value.

One new customer. One $45 finder fee. Keep booking repeat visits through YardMatch with no recurring per-job fee.

$45 once

After the first completed job for each customer / provider pairing.

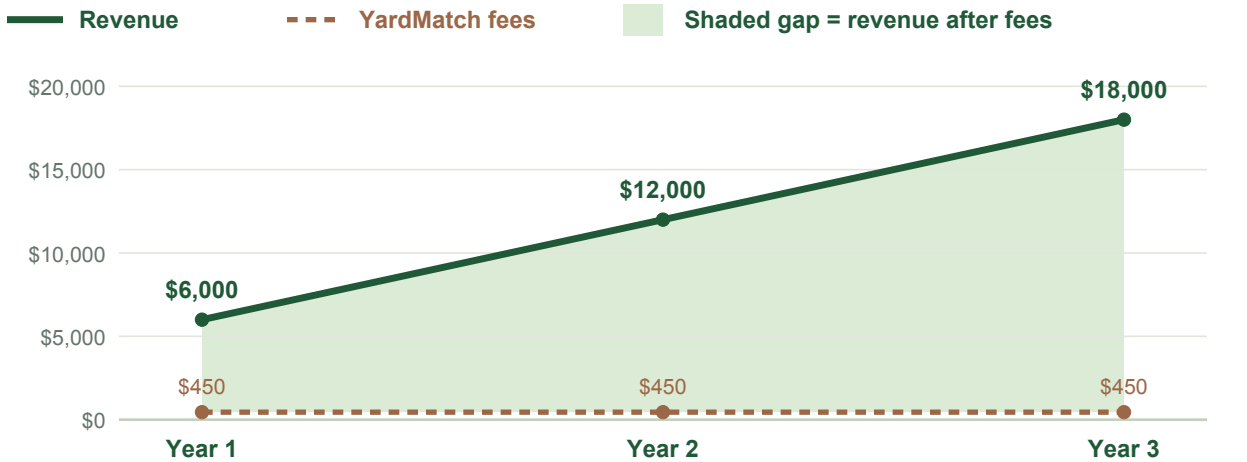

$0 recurring fees

No recurring per-job fee. Keep the relationship growing, season after season.

The finder fee is deducted from provider proceeds after the first completed job. YardMatch absorbs payment-processing cost; your business pays its crew.

ILLUSTRATION: ADD 10 CUSTOMERS EACH YEAR. KEEP THEM COMING BACK.

Add 10 new customers each year and retain earlier customers. At 10 visits per customer per year and $60 per visit, repeat business adds up.

Annual figures assume 100% retention. YardMatch fees are $450 per year: $45 once for each of 10 new customers. Shading shows revenue after finder fees, before business expenses and taxes. Standard fees before the welcome offer; no refunds. Actual results vary.

$45 once. Years of potential value. One customer retained for all three years generates $1,800 in this example; the finder fee is just 2.5%. Across all 30 customers: $36,000 in revenue and only $1,350 in finder fees.
